Dixie was born in Hillsboro, Kansas on December 22, 1941, a daughter of LuElla (Meljo) and David Seitz. She loved her parents and brothers greatly. As a child, her parents had to buy two of the exact same toy, same color, so she and Floyd wouldn't argue. She laughed about that.

Dixie enjoyed spending time with her family and grandchildren, camping, fishing and gardening with her husband Kenneth. She and Ken attended every sports event their grandkids participated in and loved every minute. Her dog, Lacey was like a furry daughter to them and they loved her so. Dixie was an excellent cook, especially baker. She loved to bake a checker board layer cake for each family member's birthday and bring it to the restaurant while celebrating.

Dixie Lou Seitz was united in marriage to Kenneth Clair Ingram on June 5, 1959 at Zion Lutheran Church, Hillsboro, Kansas. The young couple established their first home together in Newton, Kansas. This union was blessed with the birth of a daughter, Rhonda.
